

Let me check the data again.. oh no! It's a bimodal distribution.

when the data are distributed into "bimodal" rather than "one lump" cases, a box-plot would not give us any evidence of this, unfortunately, this year has little snowfall.

...So bad!

...anyway, just put your box-plot away, let's have a picnic.

